

Linehaul

The apparel logistics supply chain demand on domestic line haul carriers once goods are ready for transport to the inland DC's is a vital piece of the logistics puzzle that needs to be in place in advance wherever possible. Transportation by road is the most flexible option facing any logistics manager, group, or coordinator, and offers the most control over the flow of product at any given time. Today, the need for a strong domestic road transportation service partner is critical to successful apparel logistics. The service provider who can put a truck at the right location at the right time needs to be part of your team.

Dynamic Express owns and operates a national line haul fleet of tractors and trailers, with service to all points in the country. All our road power units are late model top-of-the-line tractors, with state-of-the-art satellite tracking systems installed on every unit. All our trailers are modified to accommodate the apparel industry specifications, and equipped with satellite tracking systems that monitor their location and movement at all times. All our drivers are radio equipped to communicate anywhere in the country.

Dynamic Express specializes in transporting GOH (Garment-On-Hanger) and Flat Pack apparel shipments throughout the domestic supply chain. All our trailers are hanging garment equipped, and Dynamic Express is recognized throughout the manufacturing and Retail community for their extensive experience and leadership in this field. Every driver has been rigorously trained in the handling and transporting of apparel shipments from point to point.

Dynamic Express maintains a high level of flexibility in all the transportation services we provide to our customers. This includes providing a wide range of data-sharing options to meet our customers varying demands. We maintain a full time IT development team in-house to meet the different needs of our customers supply chain management systems.
