

Transloading

Trans-loading in the apparel logistics supply chain has become a critical service factor in the flow of goods to the US market place, and demand for this service from competent service providers has increased dramatically. The US domestic ocean ports and railheads infrastructure has evolved into a massive transcontinental bottleneck that requires key strategic CFS, trans-loading and road transportation solutions to move goods effectively without delay once landed.

Dynamic provides full airfreight and ocean freight trans-loading services at all of our locations, specializing in hanging garments (GOH/Garment on Hanger) and Flat Pack apparel shipments. We are fully capable of stripping any air cans and ocean containers of any specification, verifying the contents against packing lists down to the SKU or style, color, and size level, and providing the receiving information electronically back to our customers. Our operations have the capacity to offer staging opportunities to consolidate air or ocean shipments with any other air or ocean shipments that may be on hand to help our customers realize cost savings wherever possible. Our turn time is 24 hours within receiving the container at any of our locations.
